Reference "DMTA course H&R" on 6 – 7 September 2010, Deventer

Elastomer Research Testing B.V. is a research institution with close collaboration to industry as well as to universities and provides intensive education courses in rubber science and technology. The cooperation with our company, Hansen&Rosenthal, enlarges the innovative potential and supports our research activities.

Several colleagues from our company attended the seminar "DMTA course H&R" on 6 -7 September 2010 in Deventer. This seminar was very well structured and enclosed a practical part and a theoretical part. A direct input of knowledge and methods used in laboratory considering the processing of unvulcanised and vulcanised rubber compounds (compounding and physical tests, environmental investigations) were given very professional.

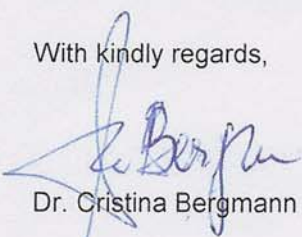

The main topics of the seminar emphasised and discussed, included:

- Introduction in rubber;
- Properties and testing of rubber;
- Viscoelastic materials;
- DMTA testing;
- DMTA testing for tyres.

The seminar was held in an enjoyable and collegial atmosphere and offered comprehensive and outstanding lectures including practical work in laboratory.

We would like to express our sincere appreciation to the institute for the successful organisation of the seminar and to wish all the best for the coming event.

With kindly regards,

Dr. Cristina Bergmann
